Peter Harrison

Peter is head of the Personal Injury and Professional Negligence Group at St Johns Buildings. He has a wealth of experience in product liability, personal injury, insurance and professional negligence, instructed by Claimants and Defendants in broadly equal measure. He has a particular interest in motor sport injury claims and claims involving high value vehicles. He is recommended by Legal 500 as a leading junior.

Richard Norton

Richard practices in the fields of personal injury, professional negligence arising out of personal injury issues and clinical negligence. He is recommended in the Legal 500 in complex high value cases. The majority of his work is in two areas: high value catastrophic brain and spinal injuries, usually arising from road traffic accidents and secondly disease cases. He lectures to solicitors in this area and is involved in consideration of multipliers and the conflict of interest in experts advising and treating/assisting.

Darrel Crilley

Darrel practices in all fields of personal injury litigation for both Claimants and Defendants alike. He is a specialist practitioner in employers' liability and industrial disease litigation. He has a vast experience of public liability claims against local authorities as a result of which he has developed a particular interest in claims arising out of dangerous premises.

Daniel Frieze

Daniel is a specialist in the areas of personal injury and clinical negligence having undertaken work at the highest level on behalf of large insurers and claimants alike. He has particular expertise in respect of conditional fee arrangements, complex liability, causation and medical issues and is regularly instructed in high value claims relating to psychiatric injury and allegations of chronic pain syndrome.

John Ratledge

John's practice incorporates personal injury for both Claimants and Defendants including all aspects of road traffic accidents, work accidents and industrial diseases, along with child and highways claims. He specialises in road traffic fraud and frequently advises on evidence and tactics as well as being involved in trials for Claimants, indemnified Defendants and Second Defendant insurers. John represented several families of the Shipman victims at their inquests which preceded the public inquiry.
