Specialist Interests

Philip has a particular interest in sporting injuries, including golf [as a 3 handicap golfer]. In the course of employment law practice he has advised sporting organisations including football clubs and sportsmen. In addition Philip has spent a great deal of time at Pendlebury Children's Hospital in the high dependency and bone marrow units and haemophiliac unit. This has provided a great insight into the coping strategies of children and their families which has particular significance when considering and investigating rehabilitation in personal injury claims.
